

Title 30-A: MUNICIPALITIES AND COUNTIES
Part 2: MUNICIPALITIES
 Subpart 6-A: PLANNING AND LAND USE REGULATION
Chapter 187: PLANNING AND LAND USE REGULATION
 Subchapter 3: LAND USE REGULATION

§4356. Moratoria

Any moratorium adopted by a municipality on the processing or issuance of development permits or licenses must meet the following requirements. [PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. A, §45 (NEW); PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. C, §10 (NEW).]

1. Necessity. The moratorium must be needed:

A. To prevent a shortage or an overburden of public facilities that would otherwise occur during the effective period of the moratorium or that is reasonably foreseeable as a result of any proposed or anticipated development; or [PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. A, §45 (NEW); PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. C, §10 (NEW).]

B. Because the application of existing comprehensive plans, land use ordinances or regulations or other applicable laws, if any, is inadequate to prevent serious public harm from residential, commercial or industrial development in the affected geographic area. [PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. A, §45 (NEW); PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. C, §10 (NEW).]

[PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. A, §45 (NEW); PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. C, §10 (NEW).]

2. Definite term. The moratorium must be of a definite term of not more than 180 days. The moratorium may be extended for additional 180-day periods if the municipality adopting the moratorium finds that:

A. The problem giving rise to the need for the moratorium still exists; and [PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. A, §45 (NEW); PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. C, §10 (NEW).]

B. Reasonable progress is being made to alleviate the problem giving rise to the need for the moratorium. [PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. A, §45 (NEW); PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. C, §10 (NEW).]

[PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. A, §45 (NEW); PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. C, §10 (NEW).]

3. Extension by selectmen. In municipalities where the municipal legislative body is the town meeting, the selectmen may extend the moratorium in compliance with subsection 2 after notice and hearing.

[PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. A, §45 (NEW); PL 1989, c. 104, Pt. C, §10 (NEW).]

I. Statutory Authority and Requirements

A moratorium (as defined in 30-A M.R.S.A. § 4301) is an ordinance that "temporarily defers" land use activity or development in order to give officials time and the opportunity to plan for accommodating or managing development. Development moratoria are specifically authorized by 30-A M.R.S.A. § 4356, subject to certain requirements set forth in the statute. These statutory requirements are express limitations on municipal home rule authority (see Perkins v. Town of Ogunquit, 1998 ME 42). Therefore, any development moratorium must comply with these requirements; municipalities have no other legal alternative for temporarily halting development for which they may be unprepared.

The principal statutory requirement for a development moratorium is that it be necessary either (1) to prevent a shortage or overburdening of public facilities (e.g., sewer, water, roads, schools, public safety), or (2) because existing plans, ordinances or regulations, if any, are inadequate to prevent serious public harm. Either of these rationales will suffice, though a municipality should cite both as justification for a moratorium if there is a factual basis for doing so. In order to create a record for a reviewing court in the event the ordinance is challenged, every moratorium ordinance should include a preamble that recites the facts which demonstrate the necessity for the moratorium. While factual justification is critical, courts will not second-guess a municipality's determination of necessity; a moratorium, like any other municipal ordinance, is presumed valid, and the challenger must establish "the complete absence" of any facts supporting the need for a moratorium (Minster v. Town of Gray, 584 A.2d 646 (Me. 1990)).

II. Limited Duration; Extensions

The statute limits the duration of development moratoria to a definite term of not more than 180 days. A moratorium may be extended for additional 180-day periods, though, if the municipality finds that (1) the problem necessitating the moratorium still exists, and (2) reasonable progress is being made to alleviate the problem. Both findings are important, but the second clearly implies an affirmative duty on the municipality's part to address the underlying circumstances and to do so in a responsible, timely fashion.

The municipality's legislative body (town meeting or council) is the party that must enact the initial moratorium ordinance. However, in municipalities where the town meeting is the legislative body, the municipal officers (board of selectpersons) have the authority to adopt an ordinance extending a moratorium in compliance with these provisions, after notice and hearing. No town meeting vote is necessary to adopt an ordinance that extends a moratorium, only to enact the initial moratorium.

III. Pending Proceedings; Retroactivity

Under 1 M.R.S.A. § 302, "pending proceedings" (i.e., permit applications for which substantive review has commenced) are not affected by the adoption of new ordinances, including moratoria. Thus, a development moratorium passed after an application has been filed and substantive review has begun ordinarily will not apply to that proposal. However, the Maine Supreme Court has held that this rule of "prospectivity" may be overcome and that, with careful planning and drafting, a moratorium can apply retroactively to pending or already permitted projects (see "Municipalities May Give Ordinances a Retroactive Effect," 1988, linked above).

How far back in time a moratorium ordinance can be applied is an open issue. We recommend that a moratorium ordinance should not apply any earlier than the date that the moratorium ordinance was proposed. However, the Maine Supreme Court has approved the retroactive application of an ordinance amendment that reaches back to an earlier date than that. In Kittery Retail Ventures, LLC v. Town of Kittery, 2004 ME 65, 856 A.2d 1183, the Town adopted an amendment to a zoning ordinance in September 2000 that purported to be effective retroactively to September, 1999 – well before the date of the ordinance amendment's introduction (in June, 2000) and well before the filing of the application that the Planning Board ultimately denied. While the Court held that the ordinance amendment could not be effective retroactive to that date (since the Town charter specified that ordinances become effective 30 days after enactment), it did hold that the ordinance amendment could be applied to applications pending on the specified date – a date earlier than the June 2000 application and earlier than the June proposal and enactment of the ordinance amendment.

Municipalities may not nullify or amend a municipal land use permit by subsequent enactment, amendment or repeal of an ordinance more than 45 days after the permit has received final approval. 30-A M.R.S.A. § 3007(6). A "municipal land use permit" includes a building permit, zoning permit, subdivision approval, site plan approval, conditional use approval, special exception approval, or other land use permit or approval. "Nullify or amend" means to nullify or amend a permit directly or to nullify or amend any other permit in a manner that effectively nullifies or amends the permit. Ordinances may still be made applicable retroactively to pending permit applications, however. This law, which became effective September 28, 2011, protects only permits that have been finally approved and only after 45 days have elapsed.

IV. Form and Contents

A development moratorium is a type of ordinance and should be in the form of an ordinance and acted upon as such (see "Ordinance Enactment," linked above). A valid moratorium ordinance should recite its factual basis, cite its legal authority (30-A M.R.S.A. § 4356), define its terms (especially the type of "development" to which it applies), and prohibit both development and the processing of applications and the issuance of permits for development. It also may specify the penalties for violation (see 30-A M.R.S.A. § 4452), although this is arguably not necessary. Linked above, see the ordinances from the towns of Arundel and Durham.

V. Moratorium vs. "Rate of Growth" Ordinance

For years there has been a debate among municipal attorneys as to whether a "slow-growth" or "rate of growth" ordinance, such as a cap on building permits or on sewer user permits, is a moratorium ordinance which must meet the requirements of 30-A M.R.S.A. § 4356. In Home Builders Association of Maine v. Town of Eliot, 2000 ME 82, 750 A.2d 566, the Maine Supreme Court upheld the Town's "Permit Limitation Ordinance" against an attack that it failed to meet the requirements of § 4356 and was unconstitutionally vague. However, the decision in the Home Builders Association case is specific to that ordinance and to the facts of that case. Because the Eliot ordinance did not prevent all development but allowed a number of housing starts, because the ordinance was consistent with the State Growth Management Act's goals of encouraging orderly growth and development and of planning for anticipated growth and development, and because the ordinance's cap on permits was not an unreasonable limit, the Maine Supreme Court upheld the ordinance. Shortly thereafter, the Maine Superior Court upheld the Town of Wells' "Residential Growth Control Ordinance" against a similar challenge. (Inland Golf Properties, Inc. v. Inhabitants of Town of Wells (Me. Super. Ct. Dkt. No. AP-98-040, York Cty. May 11, 2000).) Most recently, the Federal District Court for the District of Maine relied upon the Maine Supreme Court's decision in Home Builders Association, and upheld the Town of York's growth limitations (Currier Builders v. Town of York, Maine, 146 F.S.2d 71 (D. Me.

2001). If your municipality is contemplating such a slow growth ordinance, be sure to consult with your town attorney to evaluate whether the proposed ordinance is defensible under the Home Builders Association decision.

"Rate of growth" ordinances (as defined in 30-A M.R.S.A. § 4301) are now also governed by some specific requirements in 30-A M.R.S.A. §§ 4314 and 4360.

VI. Temporary Moratorium not a "Taking" Under Federal constitution

The U. S. Supreme Court has held that a local temporary land use moratorium did not constitute a taking of property without just compensation and therefore did not violate the U.S. Constitution, Tahoe-Sierra Preservation Council, Inc. v. Tahoe Regional Planning Agency, 535 U.S. 302, 122 S.Ct. 1465 (2002). However, whether a regulation such as a temporary moratorium ordinance is a "taking" that would entitle a party to damages and attorneys fees is fact-specific – it depends upon an analysis of the facts in a particular situation on a case-by-case basis.

VII. Legal Counsel

Moratoria often are prompted by unanticipated and controversial development proposals, and they sometimes suspend projects that are far along in the planning stage. They may adversely affect powerful interests with the will and money to mount a serious legal challenge. To defend against this prospect and ensure that a moratorium holds fast, the municipality should retain local legal counsel from the outset to assist in drafting and in advising municipal officials.
